TONI
Family Connections Program Participant

family connections
WHERE HOPE MEETS POSSIBILITY

Dear Friend,

"How did I get here?" That's something we often hear from Family Connections program participants. After a series of adverse events, they end up in a situation they never thought they would be in. It could happen to any one of us, at any time. I'd like to share one such story of an incredible woman and Family Connections program participant, Toni, who came to us over 25 years ago. She was a new mother when she discovered that her partner was suffering from addiction. On top of that, she was devastated to learn that he was also facing unfathomable legal troubles. Through no fault of her own, her life was changed forever.

Toni began one-on-one counseling at Family Connections because she was struggling with her mental health. Being a mother of two without her partner by her side was not how she envisioned her life would be. Through counseling and support, Toni was able to improve her well-being and take care of her children, eventually moving on from Family Connections.

As Toni's life continued, both children quickly grew up and she found herself managing challenging adolescents in the presence of negative influences. She began to feel helpless as a mother. She returned to Family Connections where she knew she would get the support that she needed. We provided Toni and her children with individual as well as family counseling. She also attended support groups with other families dealing with similar issues.

"Family Connections provided my family with the stability and support that we needed at a very difficult time."

Later, when Toni's mother developed dementia, she was struggling as a caregiver. Once again, she knew where to go. Family Connections' Caregiver Connections Program provided counseling and resources to Toni and her mother.

"Family Connections gave me the reassurance I needed to have my own life and to make myself a priority while caring for my mom."

Toni is still with Family Connections and has been able to benefit from other resources that we provide. Through our healthy food delivery partnership, she was able to improve her health and lose weight by preparing and eating healthier meals. She also qualified to receive a computer from Family Connections during the pandemic which she used to launch a small business!

Toni is truly an amazing woman who, throughout her life, has had to ask herself "How did I get here?" She had the strength and perseverance to find help when she needed it most. We are so proud of how far Toni has come and all the progress she has made!

Program participants like Toni are the reason we continue our high-quality work and why we are committed to excellence. At Family Connections, our program participants know that they will get the help they need and gain a lifelong support system, even at times when they struggle to understand "how did I get here?"

But we need you to continue to make a difference and be a part of the support system for our program participants! Donors like you change the lives of families, like Toni's, and help strengthen our communities. Please consider getting involved and supporting us by using the enclosed donation card, or by going to familyconnectionsny.org/donate.

Wishing you and your family a happy and healthy holiday!

FILING A PROOF OF CLAIM IS ESSENTIAL FOR PRESERVING YOUR CLAIM AND GETTING PAID IF THERE'S MONEY AVAILABLE.

4. Proof of Claim and Discharge of Liability: Filing a proof of claim is essential for preserving your claim and getting paid if there's money available. The injury client's claim, if listed on the bankruptcy petition, will be discharged at the end of the case, unless it's shown to be nondischargeable. [Source 10]

5. Adversary Proceeding: If the claim is based on fraud, DUI, or willful and malicious injury, an adversary complaint can argue that the debt is nondischargeable, allowing recovery against the debtor/defendant personally, beyond the amount of available insurance. [Source 11]

6. Affect of Automatic Stay on Statute of Limitations: In New Jersey, the statute of limitations for personal injury cases is two years. If the automatic stay expires before the statute of limitation expires, then a complaint must be filed before the two-year statute of limitations expires. If the automatic stay expires after the statute of limitations expires, then the client has thirty days from the order of discharge to file a complaint.

In summary, bankruptcy filings by either party in a personal injury case introduce complex legal considerations, affecting assets, claims, and the ability to proceed with litigation. It's essential for attorneys to navigate these intricacies carefully to ensure the best possible outcome for their clients.

NEW YORK LABOR LAWS: A LIFELINE FOR CONSTRUCTION WORKERS

BY ALEX CAPOZZI

Construction work, known for its inherent risks, demands robust legal protections. New York's labor laws rise to this challenge, offering a comprehensive safety net for construction workers, especially in the face of accidents. Let's delve into the key benefits of these laws, backed by concrete sources.

1. Elevated Safety Standards for Height-Related Risks

New York State Labor Law 240, often referred to as the "Scaffold Law," is a cornerstone of worker safety. It specifically targets the dangers associated with elevated heights, a leading cause of fatalities in construction. The law mandates strict safety precautions for scaffolds and other height-related equipment, ensuring their strength, stability, and security against falling objects. [Source 1] [Source 2]

2. Strict Liability in Scaffold Safety Violations

A unique aspect of Labor Law 240 is its approach to liability. Workers injured due to scaffold safety violations have the right to file a strict liability claim, bypassing the need to prove negligence. This provision significantly eases the path for workers to obtain compensation for injuries, lost wages, and other damages. [Source 3]

3. Comprehensive Workers' Compensation

Benefits Injured workers are entitled to workers' compensation, which covers medical treatments and a portion of lost wages, calculated based on the worker's average weekly wage and degree of disability. This benefit is a fundamental right for workers facing injuries on the job. [Source 4] [Source 5]

4. Full Compensation for Damages

While workers' compensation is invaluable, it may not cover all damages. In such scenarios, New York Labor Laws §§ 240 and 241 empower workers to seek additional compensation for economic and non-economic damages caused by third-party negligence. This includes compensation for pain and suffering, emotional distress, and unreimbursed medical expenses. [Source 6]

5. Legal Recourse in Cases of Wrongful Death

Tragically, some accidents lead to fatalities. In these instances, workers' compensation provides limited financial support to the family of the deceased. However, if the death resulted from labor law violations, a wrongful death action can be initiated, offering further financial relief and justice for the grieving family. [Source 7]

Conclusion

New York's labor laws in the construction sector are not just a set of regulations - they are a vital framework ensuring the safety and rights of construction workers. These laws offer protection from the unique hazards of construction work and provide a crucial legal pathway for workers and their families to seek compensation and justice. Understanding and utilizing these laws can make a significant difference in the lives of those who build and shape our cities.
